

Christian Eakins is the verification and validation lead for the Trusted and Assured Microelectronics branch in the Sensors Directorate of the Air Force Research Laboratory. He attended Ohio Wesleyan University and earned a B.A. degree in physics in 2010. He currently holds a patent for a second order effect counterfeit detection method and has a patent pending for another counterfeit detection method.