

Shawn Fetterolf joined Intel in 2022 and works on mid and long-term Federal strategy to collaboratively support the government and Intel's combined interests. He has worked at IBM, IBM Research, Synopsys, and now Intel. His work has spanned diverse areas of research and development inc. lithography, test/characterization, security & trust, process development & integration, device design, as well as advanced SoC architectures. Shawn is a named inventor on a diverse portfolio of over 20 patents.